Press Release

Publicis Worldwide Appoints David Droga
Worldwide Creative Director

Paris, December 13, 2002---David Droga has been appointed Worldwide Creative Director of Publicis Worldwide, one of the three global advertising networks of the world's fourth-largest communications group.

David Droga, 34, has had an exceptional international award-winning career, with the most recent recognition being this year's award by Ad Age Magazine as the World's Top Creative Director 2002. His agency, Saatchi & Saatchi London, where he has been Executive Creative Director, was named this year "Global Agency of the Year" at the Cannes International Advertising Festival 2002, and the UK's Number 1 Ranked Agency for Income Earned by Campaign Magazine.

His international career led to top awards for the agencies with which he was affiliated. This included International Agency of the Year Award for Saatchi & Saatchi, Singapore and Agency of the Year Award for Omon Sydney.

He commented, "Saatchi & Saatchi London has been the most rewarding three years of my career to date. That gives me great confidence to become the Worldwide Creative Director of Publicis Worldwide, a formidable network with a huge creative mandate".

Maurice Levy, Chairman and CEO of Publicis Worldwide, said "I want Publicis Worldwide to be the best creative network in the world. I have chosen the man who I believe is the best creative director today. Dave has the passion, the energy, and the talent to make Publicis Worldwide the best. He has an amazing track record of amazingly-relevant campaigns which win awards and market share."
